Born: Pittsburgh, June 15, 1921
Died: Los Angeles, Jan. 2, 1977

Introduction:
Erroll Garner was one of the very first jazz artists I ever heard, and I will never forget the astonishment and joy I felt when listening to “Lullaby Of Birdland”, “Caravan” and other exciting performances. He was held in high esteem in Oslo Jazz Circle already from the middle fifties.

History:
Brother of Linton Garner. He played professionally in the Pittsburgh area from 1938 to 1941 with Leroy Brown’s orchestra. By 1944 he had moved to New York, where he started to play in nightclubs; he served as a substitute for Art Tatum in Tatum’s trio with Tiny Grimes and Slam Stewart, remaining when it became the Slam Stewart Trio (1945). He then formed his own trio with bass and drums, a format he retained for the whole of his career when not playing as a soloist, and he quickly captured a large audience. In 1947, while working in the Los Angeles area, he recorded with Charlie Parker. In 1950s and 1960s he was one of the most frequently seen jazz musicians on television, and in 1957-8 he undertook the first of many overseas tours. He remained active until February 1975, becoming one of the most familiar figures on the jazz scene and issuing a great many recordings (ref. New Grove Dictionary of Jazz).

Message:
This solography is the first version of the planned result from awarding me the “Erroll Garner – Martha Glaser Archive Research Award”. Learning that my proposal “Erroll Garner Solography for the Jazz Archeology Website” had been accepted (Dec. 2017), I started work immediately (particularly grateful to the assistance of Christian Dangleterre and Tom Buhmann).

First all discographical information on EG’s issued recordings from the very beginning had to be utilized. This had to be integrated with the information on unissued sessions so thoroughly researched and presented by James M. Doran in his book “The Most Happy Piano”. Only then I could be well prepared for the research visit to the archive, located at the University of Pittsburgh.

The solography format as developed and used in more than 3000 pages of famous jazz vintage artists, had to be changed slightly. After all, one is not much surprised finding that a solo pianist is soloing through his performance! I therefore chose to limit the formal solo identification to duration and tempo ((F)-Fast, (FM)-Fast Medium, (M)-Medium, (SM)-Slow Medium, (S)-Slow). Note that the duration sometimes are taken from the printed info on the record, at other times using my own stop watch, so don’t take it to be exact, only as a guide.

A few other details:
Studio sessions: ordinary letters: ERROLL GARNER
Broadcasts/Concerts/Informal: cursive letters: ERROLL GARNER

All titles I have heard are with ordinary letters, the unheard with cursive. Sessions taken from Doran are marked with the initials JMD.

A young Erroll Garner, almost seven years before he appears as a professional artist. The group is exciting, sounding to me exactly what I would imagine young jazz musicians would play at this swing time. I would also guess Afro-American, but the names seem to indicate otherwise. Can anybody elaborate? The piano playing is fine, but immature, and bears no particular resemblance to what EG gave us later. I dare say nobody would pick him correctly if hearing these items in a quiz. The two titles are nevertheless both extremely important jazz archeological discoveries, and also the rather academic results of some youngsters trying out new technology to hear themselves playing.

The ‘real’ Erroll Garner appears late autumn 1944. Thanks to the active, foresighted and incredible Timme Rosenkrantz, the baron from Denmark, beautiful music was recorded in his apartment during a period of a few months. Lots of stuff keeps coming up, most of it presenting the current jazz greats, and Erroll Garner was one of those blessed who was invited to join the parties. Below is a complete presentation of his recordings with Timme. Not all have been available, being for the moment closely kept in a Danish vault, but most are available on LP and CD. Take a good look below!

ERROLL GARNER / INEZ CAVANAUGH
NYC. Oct. 20, 1944
Erroll Garner (p), Inez Cavanaugh (vo).
Two titles were recorded at Timme Rosenkrantz’ apartment on 7 West 46th Street (demolished in 2017).

I’m In The Mood For Love
Somebody Loves Me

NYC. Nov. 3, 1944
Erroll Garner (p), Inez Cavanaugh (vo-“... Love”, “... Loves Me”).
Five titles were recorded at Timme Rosenkrantz’ apartment.

Somebody Loves Me
Between The Devil And The Deep Blue Sea

NYC. Nov. 3, 1944
Erroll Garner (p), Inez Cavanaugh (vo).
One title was recorded at Timme Rosenkrantz’ apartment.

More Than You Know
Embraceable You

NYC. Nov. 16, 1944
Erroll Garner (p), Inez Cavanaugh (vo-“Memories …”, “More …”, “... You”).
Six titles were recorded at Timme Rosenkrantz’ apartment.

The Clock Stood Still
The Fighting Cocks
Memories Of You
More Than You Know
Embraceable You

The first recordings with the ‘modern’ Erroll Garner are accompaniments to the sensitive vocalist Inez Cavanaugh with some solo sections. Beautiful duets, and hopefully the rest of these can be available in the future. There is one solo item, “The Clock…”, and I guess most of his fans, grown up on “Concert By The Sea” and his music of the 1950s and later, were surprised when they heard it for the first time. It is a long dreamy performance with some tempo shifts, almost making us think of classical music rather than jazz.
ERROLL GARNER
NYC. Nov. 18, 1944

Erroll Garner solo (p).

Two titles were recorded at Timme Rosenkrantz’ apartment.

Floating On A Cloud
Cloudburst

10:13. (SM)
9:00. (S)

NYC. Nov. 22, 1944

Erroll Garner solo (p).

Three titles were recorded at Timme Rosenkrantz’ apartment.

Autumn Mood
Variations On A Theme Pt 1 & 2

7:26. (S)
5:19. (S)

EG seems to be in a world on his own here; no standard popular tunes, rather original compositions created then and there. He prefers the quite slow tempo, and only on “Cloud” he increases it so much that there is indication of swing. All items are surprisingly long, and the general impression is that these are music versions of pleasant dreams.

ERROLL GARNER / VIC DICKENSON
NYC. Nov. 24, 1944

Vic Dickenson (tb), Erroll Garner (p).

Three titles were recorded at Timme Rosenkrantz’ apartment.

Achin’ A Blues
On The Sunny Side Of The Street
Drizzly Afternoon

Solo 64 bars. 3:44. (S)

The issued “Sunny Side...” obviously fades out when the trombone supposedly comes in. EG continues to surprise us with an unusual slow tempo and the mood is dreamy, quite original and far from any sunny side.

ALL STARS ORCHESTRA
NYC. Dec. 1944

Bobby Pratt (tb), Barney Bigard (cl), Erroll Garner (p), George Wettling (dm).

Two titles were recorded at Timme Rosenkrantz’ apartment.

It Had To Be You
I Surrender Dear (NC)

Solo 64 bars. 2:18. (SM)

Also here only EG’s piano solo is issued, and the result is very interesting with the mood similar to above.

NYC. Dec. 1944

Vic Dickenson or Bobby Pratt (tb), possibly Barney Bigard (cl), Erroll Garner (p), Timme Rosenkrantz (perc).

One title was recorded at Timme Rosenkrantz’ apartment.

Yesterdays

NYC. Dec. 1944

Bobby Pratt (tb-“Test ...”), Eli “Lucky” Thompson (ts), Gene Sedric (ts-“Toe Jam ...”), Stuff Smith (vln-“Toe Jam ...”), Erroll Garner (p), Inez Cavanaugh (vo-“... You Are”). “... You Are” possibly recorded Dec. 12.

Four titles were recorded at Timme Rosenkrantz’ apartment.

All The Things You Are
Toe Jam Blues
Test Pilots

Intro 8 bars. Acc. (vo).
Solo 2 choruses of 36 bars. (SM)
Solo 56 bars. 8:05. (FM)
Solo 64 bars. 8:58. (FM)

The first time we can hear EG take part in a real jamsession, at Timme’s. Better company than Lucky cannot be had, and therefore “Things ...” is the primary item. Nevertheless he plays it similarly to many other items, like he was alone with himself. The two other items are pretty noisy and in uptempo, and EG is definitely the one who gets most out of them, particularly the swinging “... Pilots”, but these are not the EG to remember for long.

ERROLL GARNER
NYC. Dec. 10-12, 1944

Erroll Garner solo (p).

Three titles were recorded at Timme Rosenkrantz’ apartment.

Overture At Dawn
Erroll’s Concerto
Yesterdays

8:48. (M)
5:30. (S/FM)
9:42. (S/M/FM)
NYC. Dec. 14, 1944

Erroll Garner solo (p).

Four titles were recorded at Timme Rosenkrantz’ apartment.

- All The Things You Are 6:24. (S/M)
- I Hear A Rhapsody 8:19. (S)
- Erroll’s Reverie 7:21. (S)
- You Were Born To Be Kissed 5:12. (S)

These items supply the impression we get from the other early recordings in Timme’s apartment, playing dreamy, very creative, while rather introvert music. Particularly when he chooses standard familiar songs, one can only marvel at what he is doing in his improvisations. Take “... Things ...” or the long “Yesterdays” with tempo shifts as gorgeous examples! Or “... Rhapsody”, by all means! From these recordings alone, if he had been hit by a car at New Years Eve 1944, he would still have obtained legend status.

NYC. Dec. 18, 1944

ERROLL GARNER TRIO

Erroll Garner (p), John Simmons (b), Harold “Doc West (dm).

Ten titles were recorded for Rex.

- RK-5 Perdido 2:43. (M)
- RK-6 Soft And Warm 3:05. (SM)
- RK-7 Everything Happens To Me 3:06. (S)
- RK-8 I’m In The Mood For Love 2:49. (S)
- RK-9 All The Things You Are 3:36. (SM)
- RK-10 Blue Room 2:53. (M)
- RK-11 I Get A Kick Out Of You 2:52. (M)
- RK-12 Blues I Can’t Forget 3:06. (S)
- RK-13 Boogie Woogie Boogie 3:16. (M)
- RK-14 Glass In The Dark / Erroll’s Bounce 3:04. (SM)

This is EG’s first recording session in a proper studio environment and his first appearance with a trio, making his playing sound harder than before, also due to the microphone setup. He also is constrained by the 78 rpm. limit of three minutes plus. The results are quite nice, but not particularly exciting compared to the earlier private sessions, nor to later trio sessions in the years to come. The slower tunes appear most successful, interesting to hear him play the “Blues ...”, the other are pretty abrupt, but the minor “Boogie ...” is fascinating.

NYC. Dec. 20, 1944

ERROLL GARNER

Erroll Garner solo (p).

Five titles were recorded at Times Hall (falsely given as Town Hall).

- The Fighting Cocks 4:13. (S/M)
- A Lick And A Promise 4:43. (S/M)
- Opus 1 3:15. (FM)
- Gaslight 4:06. (S)
- Twistin’ The Cat’s Tail / Fast Company 2:37. (F)

These items sound much like they could have been recorded in the above mentioned famous apartment. Strong and colourful, sometimes too dramatic for my taste, try “... Promise” for an example.

NYC. Dec. 22, 1944

ERROLL GARNER

Erroll Garner solo (p).

One title was recorded at Timme Rosenkrantz’ apartment.

- Variations On A Nursery Rhyme 9:47. (S)

NYC. Dec. 24, 1944

Erroll Garner solo (p).

One title was recorded in Timme Rosenkrantz’ apartment.

- Great Christmas 9:20. (S/M)

Two additional solitaire items of the same type as described earlier, quite far from the music EG gave us a decade later but very fascinating. Particularly the great “white” “... Christmas” is a must!

NYC. Dec. 23-25, 1944

ERROLL GARNER

Erroll Garner (p), unknown (b-items 1-2).

Fourteen titles were recorded at Timme Rosenkrantz’ apartment.

- Just You, Just Me 2:42. (FM)
- Yesterdays 2:38. (S)
A mixture of titles, a standard like “Just You...” showing that EG knows how to swing, although in a rather staccato way, and a ballad like “Yesterdays” in a rather straightforward version. More exciting are the surprisingly long items, close to ten minutes. Many years will pass before EG presents anything similar to such extended improvisations. One can only marvel at the creativity he exhibits, such unexpected variations and details, some close to bizarre!

ERROLL GARNER ALL STARS

Twelve titles were recorded at Timme Rosenkrantz’ apartment.

A final home jam session. My favourite is the slow “Gaslight” featuring EG and everybody else to full satisfaction in good sound. Exciting also on upper medium “Red Cross” (named after Bob Redcross), hard swinging almost chopping piano with a hard rhythm backing. Absolutely remarkable is the “... Fast One”, the fastest item EG has recorded until now, no problems with the technique and a great contrast to his dreamy works. This duality will follow him through the rest of his career. Jumping “... Pay Day” (note the magnificent bowing bass here!) and “Geronimo” are easy to digest and will probably be enjoyed by most EG fans. Goodbye Timme!!

The Timme Rosenkrantz apartment sessions have come to an end with the close of the year 1944. One might say that EG now ventures into unknown terrain of recording studios, but more correctly the situation is the opposite: We have met a young very talented and original artist with the opportunity to play his innermost ideas in a private environment, now he must conform to business practices and play what is supposed to fare well in the market.

Entering 1945, EG is now a popular and much sought artist, appearing with many of the numerous small record labels of the day. Black & White was one of the more important ones, giving him two 78s with his trio. The results are rather conventional, the medium titles proceed smoothly, and “... Cats Tail” is boogie woogie related, not very exciting.

SLAM STEWART QUARTET
NYC. Jan. 30, 1945

Erroll Garner (p), Mike Bryan (g), Leroy “Slam” Stewart (b), Harold “Doc” West (dm).
Four titles were recorded for Savoy.
The combination of EG and the magnificent Slam Stewart with his bowing bass is very successful, also heard on Dec. 26 earlier. Slam is definitely the boss here, but this seems to be beneficial to EG who just swings in medium tempo without any pressure, just enjoy himself in the fantastic surroundings. Listen to the brief but lovely solo on “... Fiddle ...”!

GEORGIE AULD’S ORCHESTRA
NYC. Feb. 7, 1945
Bigband personnel including Erroll Garner (p), Gordon Drake (vo-“I Fall In Love ...”), Patti Powers (vo-“Sweetheart ...”).
Four titles were recorded for Guild.

G550-A Georgie Porgie Solo 8 bars. (M)
G551-A Sweetheart Of All My Dreams Acc. (vo-PP). (M)
G552-A I Fall In Love Too Easily Break 3 bars. (S)
G553-A In The Middle Solo 16 bars. (M)

EG’s participation with the Georgie Auld orchestra is not prominent, nor very exciting.

ERROLL GARNER
NYC. March 9, 1945
Erroll Garner solo (p).
Four titles were recorded for Signature.

SRC114 Sweet Lorraine 3:12. (S/M)
SRC115 Yesterdays 2:42. (S/M)
SRC116-2A Loot To Boot 3:06. (M)
SRC117 Gaslight 3:13. (S)

Changing record companies like shirts, EG gives Signature a solo session. Two evergreens played in varying tempi, and two from the Timme repertoire of which “Loot ...” is typical for EG’s sense of humour, but the beautiful “Gaslight” hits me the most.

DON BYAS QUARTET
NYC. Aug. 30, 1945
Don Byas (ts), Erroll Garner (p), Leroy “Slam” Stewart (b), Harold “Doc” West (dm).
Four titles were recorded for Super Disc.

MF14 Three O’Clock In The Morning Soli 16 and 4 bars. (M)
MF15 One O’Clock Jump Solo 36 bars. (F)
MF16 Harvard Blues Solo 12 bars. (S)
MF18 Slammin’ Around Intro 8 bars. Solo 32 bars. (F)

This is a session to be noted! The first session which EG teams up with one of the greatest of horns, Don Byas. This is probably not the time nor space for criticizing solo pianist for being just that, but sometimes one is bound to wish for some external challenges, putting EG in place as to be one of many great musicians. Don Byas can do just that, and the presence of Slam Stewart is an additional attraction. EG seems to enjoy himself with his comparatively brief soli, and he really takes off on the two fast titles, not so many examples of this tempo so early.

On The Sunny Side Of The Street      3:30. (SM)
I Know That You Know                 2:08. (F)

This might be called the first ‘complete’ recording session(s), a large number of titles. These are still constrained by the three minutes limit of the 78 rpm. era, although it is assumed that they are recorded on larger media (16” acetates?), but there are all kinds of tempi, and all are well known evergreens. EG plays very nicely as always, but one get the impression that he has so much more to offer under more challenging circumstances. His abilities to improvise is well developed already, he is 24 years old, and it is great fun to listen closely to the individual titles to hear what he does to/with them, but the recording circumstances of the forties do not give him the chance to exploit his dynamic potential. We have to wait a decade for that.

SLAM STEWART TRIO                     NYC. Sept. 7, 1945
Erroll Garner (p), Slam Stewart (b), Harold “Doc” West (dm).
Four titles were recorded for Manor.

1275 Hop, Skip And Jump      Straight. Solo 24 bars. (FM)
1276 Sherry Lynn Flip        Straight. Solo 32 bars. (M)
1277 Three Blind Micesky     Intro. Solo 40 bars. Coda. (M)
1278 Blue, Brown And Beige   Solo/straight 32+32 bars. (SM)

More good examples of the fine cooperation between EG and Slam, the later in charge of the session and most exciting, but it really does not matter to have the piano in peripheral role for one, he seems to enjoy it!

ERROLL GARNER TRIO                NYC. Sept. 25, 1945
Erroll Garner (p), John Levy jr. (b), George DeHart (dm).
Four titles were recorded for Regal/Savoy.

5837-1 Laura                    2:41. (S)
5838-1 Stardust                 2:44. (S)
5839-2 Somebody Loves Me        2:42. (M)
5840-2 Indiana                   2:33. (M)

Flowery versions of “Laura” and “Stardust” and two medium swingers, all fine piano playing but wish they lasted longer. Am digging “Indiana”!

ERROLL GARNER                   NYC. Oct. 14, 1945
Erroll Garner solo (p).
Four titles were recorded at Timme Rosenkrantz’ apartment and sold to Moe Asch, Disc Record Company. (note: “... Mine” is an EG arrangement of “The Man I Love”).

D231 Man O’ Mine                 2:12. (SM/S)
D232 Oh, Lady Be Good!           2:10. (SM/FM)
D233 Don’t Blame Me              2:23. (SM)
D234 How High The Moon           2:18. (FM)

Speaking about length, these are meaningless brief, otherwise nothing wrong with the music. Rather surprising tempo shifts, and original interpretations of the “... Lady ...” and “... The Moon”.

DON BYAS QUARTET                NYC. Nov. 1, 1945
Don Byas (ts), Erroll Garner (p), Slam Stewart (b), Harold “Doc” West (dm).
Four titles were recorded for Arista.

Eleven titles were recorded for Mercury.

157  All The Things You Are  3:22. (S)
158-3 Embraceable You  3:07. (S)
159-2 I’ve Got You Under My Skin  2:38. (S)
160-2 Always  3:06. (SM)
161-2 My Heart Stood Still  2:44. (SM)
162-1 Sometimes I’m Happy  2:43. (M)
163-2 Lover Come Back To Me  3:11. (S/M)
164-1 I Can’t Get Started  3:11. (S)
165-1 Symphony  3:00. (SM)
166-3 Bouncin’ With Me  3:11. (S/M)
167  High Octane  2:31. (M)

The first recording session for Mercury, a company which should have great importance for EG later in life. Obviously the emphasis is on slow and emotional evergreens here, and the take numbers show that some effort has been made to ensure that everything is perfect; EG usually needed only one take. If one plays the whole session in one piece, the feeling of commercialism and routine creep in, but taking one by one item, it always has something to offer.

Note: The personnel is definitely not Raeburn although released under his name on Hep 22.
Four titles were recorded for Fran-Tone, not released, later on AFRS Downbeat.

Black Night And Fog  Acc. (vo). (SM)
C Jam Blues  Solo 12 bars. Acc. (vo). (M)
Please Let Me Forget  Intro 4 bars. Solo 4 bars. Acc. (vo). (S)
Caravan  Solo 28 bars. (M)

A not very important session for EG; although some nice playing on “... Forget”. However, one true exception, “Caravan”, one of EG’s most important vehicles in the years to come, and this is the first version recorded, only half a chorus but good solo!

ERROLL GARNER
Hollywood, late Feb. 1946
Erroll Garner solo (p).
VDisc/AFRS Jubilee 170/171. Three titles.

Laura  2:34. (S)
Yesterdays  1:39. (M)
Erroll’s Bounce  2:15. (M)
EG is now definitely on the West Coast, participating in the AFRS programs. Compare this “Laura” with the one on Savoy, and you will hear how different they are, but equally beautiful! One of the numerous “... Bounce”s is good enough. “Yesterdays” is quite original in its meaningless briefness.

Four beautiful items, three belonging to the Mercury concept of Dec. 1945, perfect in the blend of great art and commercialism, while “Frantonality” is a queer little swingy song off the main road.

For once EG is only a sideman, joining the great Charlie Parker, but nevertheless this is more correctly ‘Charlie Parker with the Erroll Garner Trio’. Quoting Tony Williams on Mosaic’s liner notes: “EG’s florid, idiosyncratic style was, some would have thought, not well adapted to accompanying a soloist as “busy” as Parker. So it seemed a risky mix although, in the event, EG adapted and simplified his style with such intelligence and sympathy that no problems arose”. One might still argue that his comping is pretty heavy, but Bird seems to enjoy it.

What is very important here is Dial’s search for perfection, giving the musician the chance to improve during several takes. Possibly EG did not need this, being later famous for playing tune after tune in one take, but Bird needed it, and EG had to go along. Thus we get the chance to hear whether EG really improvises. Or does he play the same thing on all takes? Oh, no! Playing the lovely vocalbased “... Shadows”, one finds four different soli; although the main structure is the same, the details are to a large extent different. The most exciting EG item is “... Nest” where he really shows his uptempo capabilities, great, nothing like this in the forties!! The “Cool ...” seems confusing because of the tempo variations, EG is reported to have disliked the first two takes finding them too fast. Anyway, we can hear a lot of bluesy EG on this item, pick your own choice to which take is the best. One more thing: It may be difficult to understand it, but this is the last time EG is in a recording studio with somebody blowing his horn!!

The Charlie Parker session terminates with two trio titles. Quoting Mosaic again: “The Garner selections comprise the only surviving studio recordings by what was arguably the pianist’s most satisfying group in his entire career”. There may be different opinions about this, but in no later trios there is such close piano/bass interplay as Garner/Callender. Tempting to take another quote: “When playing with him, Callender always positioned himself on the left side of the piano so that he could see what EG’s left hand was doing. “That was his rhythm section, his whole secret. Hell, he didn’t need a bass player, he just enjoyed the luxury, liked the feel””.

The great RCA Victor company also throws itself on the EG recording wagon, including the joking and famous “… Bounce”, used later as a theme song. He does not usually play the blues, so here is a good example of that too. Two beautiful slow evergreens wrap it up.

AFRS Jubilee No. 262. One title:
This is the first proper EG concert, and one very important session for many reasons. The highlight is “Blue Lou” where EG joins the magnificent tenorsax player Wardell Gray. It was smart to have rehearsal, because then things do not go as smoothly as wanted, and EG’s playing is rather edgy. However on the concert itself, “Blue Lou” is not only good, it is a masterpiece, first a Wardell Gray playing some immortal tenor saxophone, and EG with a really dynamic and inspired solo (note that the Classics CD has amputated both piano and tenorsax solo, lasting only 6:12). The four “… Jump”s are in fact different parts of the same jam, and EG takes the usual introduction and returns for another five inspired choruses. His comping on these items is however in my opinion much too heavy. On this session, having quite long soli on “Blue Lou” and “Lover”, we can also see the development of his later perfect blend of heavy sections combined with easy light swinging ones, a trademark of EG. Finally, compare the three Jubilee versions of “… Bounce” and note how different they are, although they are quite brief!

Dial obviously was satisfied with EG’s earlier performances with Bird, because he gets another opportunity here, this time alone. The excellent sound here does a lot to increase the pleasure of listening to this great music. Two beautiful ballads are perhaps most exciting, because here we have alternate takes. Why is not for me to understand, I cannot find flaws anywhere. Maybe the producer Ross Russell just loved to hear EG play! Listen to the two introductions to “Love …” or the three to “Don’t Worry …”; is somebody missing improvisation? His “Blues …” is full of unexpected twists, “Play …” is just gorgeous, and everything is just perfect on this session!!

Nothing out of the ordinary happens at this concert. The choice of music material for this marathon session (with seemingly a trial one some weeks earlier) cannot have been done without careful planning, because ca. 75% of the tunes are in slow tempo, and like Dial and other civilized record companies, several takes have been used on many titles to get the best results. The results are all noteworthy, although we still are in the 78 rpm age, constraining the soloing to three minutes or so. Both the very beautiful slow titles and the swinging medium ones are all well conceived, and EG seems to be inspired here. Possibly this is the most successful studio session till now.

Teddy Edwards (ts), Erroll Garner (p), John Simmons (b), Chuck Thompson (dm), Dave Lambert (vo).

Gene Norman’s “Just Jazz” concert. One title.

Cherokee

Intro 8 bars. Solo 2 choruses of 64 bars.

Acc. (b) 64 bars. (FM)

A curious mixture of bebop, scat song and dramatic piano! Quoting myself from the Teddy Edwards solography: “Erroll Garner is a marvellous soloist but as accompaniment his playing is no success, and TE is blowing uphill, doing as best he can but he does not really get anywhere”. Well, it seemed too heavy for TE, but the piano solo is highly exciting! Note: This is the last time there exists a session where EG plays together with somebody blowing a horn! Can you believe that?!

It is ok to be a solo pianist, but there is a limit, jazz could have been richer if EG had mixed with other people once in awhile!

Another Savoy session with the same trio and with evergreens in various tempi, though mostly slow. It seems that this record company has got a good grip on EG; he plays very interesting and inspired here. Take “The Man ...” and “... Little Girl” as excellent examples of his soft but emotional ballad style of the late forties, as well as easy swinging items like “Moonglow”.

Back in NYC. with a change of rhythm section, it seems that the recording companies are crawling over each other to record EG these days! First out is Mercury. The emphasis is clearly on the slow ballads, lovely items still constrained by the three minutes limit, and more beautiful piano playing than “Turquoise” will be difficult to find. A few swingers like “... Love” and “... Tonight” create a necessary change of mood.

- The Huckle Buck

JOHNNY HARTMAN VOCAL WITH

ERROLL GARNER TRIO
NYC. Aug. 23, 1949

Erroll Garner (p), Leonard Gaskin (b), Charlie Smith (dm).

Four titles were recorded for Mercury.

- 2950-1 Remember 2:46. Intro 4 bars. Solo 8 bars. (S)
- 2951-1 Easy To Remember 3:05. Solo 4 bars. (S)
- 2952-1 September In The Rain 3:12. Intro 4 bars. Solo 8 bars. (S)
- 2953-1 Home 3:14. Intro 2 bars. Solo 4 bars. (S)

Something different for a change! EG does a very fine job when accompanying this famous singer, but not surprisingly there is no space for anything but quite brief piano soli.

ERROLL GARNER TRIO
NYC. Sept. 8, 1949

Erroll Garner (p), Leonard Gaskin (b), Charlie Smith (dm).

Eight titles were recorded for 3 Deuces.

- 1009-a2 Scatter-Brain 2:32. (M)
- 1010-a1 Through A Long And Sleepless Night 3:00. (S)
- 1011-a4 Again 2:35. (S)
- 1012-a1 What Is This Thing Called Love? 3:00. (SM)
- 1013-a2 I Let A Song Go Out Of My Heart 2:42. (S)

- 1015-a1 Jitterbug Waltz 2:55. (S)
- 1016-a2 Deep Purple 2:18. (S)
Again the emphasis is heavy on the quite slow titles, and nothing wrong with that, nor the quality of RG’s playing, but sometimes one might wish for more tempo!

Violent and dramatic two minutes, not quite EG’s usual style, not very interesting either.

The fifties start with another change of rhythm section, and this time with the Roost recording company. As long as the three minutes limit prevails, there is little difference between the various sessions; EG plays his music, this time rather unusual titles which do not seem to bother him, perfect as always.

434 Reminiscing In Blue
4:23. (S)

Now it is Atlantic’s turn, and this time there is much larger variations in tempi. I wonder whether the choice of songs and tempi were made by the company, or more likely just depending on EG’s mood on that particular day. Anyway there is something for everybody here; like the slow but rolling “Summertime” to a swinging “Margie”. Another highlight is the very slow “Reminiscing...”, lie back and enjoy! Note in particular the odd item “Perpetual...”, lasting almost ten minutes, probably never meant to be issued but only a result of the tape running while EG enjoyed himself.

Although these items from Birdland are rather brief, they are nevertheless with fine music, particularly "... Love?" is exciting, while beauty is represented by the two ballads.

Eight titles were recorded for Columbia.
Note: Unissued material from this session exists according to Doran.

44025-4 When You’re Smiling  3:50. (M)
44026 Long Ago  2:42. (S)
44027-3 Poor Butterfly  3:14. (M)
44028-6 Spring Is Here  2:30. (S)

Now it is Columbia’s turn, and this is important, because as we will see later, this company produced the very best of EG’s studio recordings through the 1950s, and he never played better than on those. This session is perhaps not remarkable compared to the many preceding ones, but the basis is laid for an expansion of EG’s music to a much larger public. He seems to have a particularly inspired touch here, or maybe it is something produced by my mind, but try for yourself!

What about "... Smiling"?

I have had the pleasure of listening to several of these broadcasts, although a little bit of disappointment must be mentioned; there is no stretching out in a club atmosphere as one might think, compared to the 78 rpm. constraints still operating in the studio sessions. In fact, these are heavily controlled broadcasts and most titles are quite brief. When this is said, there are some great moments; EG always plays to fullest satisfaction. Not so much uptempo, but there are magnificent versions of ballads like “Laura”, “Yesterday”, “Body And Soul” and “Sophisticated Lady”.

No difficulties with swinging the waltz, but bouncing it is even better! “... The Moon” is played slower than usual for this song, referring to the beboppers. The great highlight for me is however the very fast “Lover”, brilliant! I wonder how long he was able to go on with that speed under private circumstances?

Back to the Columbia studios and a nice bunch of evergreens. Starting properly with “Laura”, one of EG’s favourite vehicles judging by the number of versions, and one more is just another delight, they are all different. Then a beautiful soft version of “... Waterfront”. Continuing, not a weak spot on this trio session. Take “... Serenade” and the way he is hanging the beat, unique for EG. Or the “mystic” “... Piano ...”, so fascinating. There is also some great uptempo here, “Indiana” and above all “... Rose” played unusual fast and still so completely natural.

Now on the West Coast, EG proceeds with a solo session, consisting of slow and dreamy tunes, with a fine swinging exception in “... Hollywood”.

Columbia also records EG on the West Coast, eight excellent items, for some possible highlights pick the dynamic and colourful “Margin ...” and “... Dandy”, and note also the strange presentation of “... The Town”.

Once In A While                                                                    4:12. (S)

There is no limit to the database of beautiful evergreens, but nevertheless EG seems to attempt each and everyone, with of course great success. It is hopeless to try to select individual items for listening, the choice lies upon the listener. Personally I generally give priority to up-tempo titles with his fantastic dynamic swing like “... Knew”, but then one has to just lay over on the back and enjoy the softer slow medium items like “Summertime”, “... Nowhere” and surprisingly “... Good”, or purely dreamy ballads like “... While”, to finish up with the original “... Maestro ...”? EG is truly incredible in his art!

The only solo session for Columbia and more or less as one expects it to be, mostly in slow tempi. EG plays a harder left hand hear to compensate for the missing trio format, and it is only a matter of taste how you feel about it. He certainly knows his classics on “Chopin ...”, and there are many beautiful ballad versions, like “... Every Breath ...”. I also have a special feeling for “... The Dark”, possibly because it was one of the first items I heard with EG back in the fifties. Note that the length of the items on average seems to increase, probably in expectation of the transition from 78 rpm. to EP and LP, several items here are only on these newer media.

48894 Once In A While 5:46. (S)
48895 Will You Still Be Mine? 6:29. (F)
48896 Blue Ecstasy 7:47. (S)
48897 Avalon 4:16. (F)

This session was my introduction to Erroll Garner, and I still consider it, and the following Columbia session, to be of a quality never surpassed. Equipped with a new bassist and drummer, it seems that EG felt extremely comfortable, relaxed and eager to play, and the duration of the items here is much longer than in the earlier sessions. Note that this is the first EG session where none of the items were issued on 78 rpm. There are all kinds of music material, and the tempi vary from very slow to very fast. My first purchase was a Phillips LP containing six of the above titles, 48886, 48888, 48891, 48892, 48895 and 48897, shortly after came a 10” with 48889 and 48893. My friends and I were completely hypnotized with this fantastic piano playing and remain so to this very day. To select favourites is almost impossible, but we were divided on whether to select “Lullaby of Birdland” or “Caravan” as the most exciting, the latter also competing with the fast “Will You Still Be Mine?” and “Avalon”. In slow tempo, the magnificent “There Is No Greater Love” is as fascinating now sixty years later as then. Playing these eight titles again now, they seem as fresh as ever, and all of them are superb. The remaining five titles I had not heard until undertaking this solography project, and they fit beautifully into the total with the emotional and hypnotical “Blue Ecstasy” as something you will never forget! This session, having 75 minutes of music, represents the start of a personal involvement that ended up with this solography project, and better jazz piano does not exist!!

Seventeen titles were recorded for Columbia.
Excellent followup session to the one in February, but it cannot quite compete since the items here are much shorter in duration, thus not giving EG the chance to elaborate his improvisations properly. However, he runs the seventeen titles with his usual sovereign professionalism, and there are great moments here; it is enough to mention the fireworks of “Love For Sale”, my goodness! Note also a new version of “... Birdland”! this is very unusual, but the reason is probably that the Feb. version was much too long to fit unto a 78 rpm., and this market was not closed yet. This version has a quite different intro, then the first chorus is pretty similar, while the second has more variations. Together the two versions throw an interesting light on EG’s improvisational style.

Something unusual happens here; there is a long bass solo on “... Blues! “... Eyes ...” is played in a very slow tempo, also that unusual, “... Lover ...” on the other hand is played very fast, and has an intro you cannot guess what is leading into, something which is quite usual!

Mercury has taken over for a few sessions, but the quality of the music has the same exceptional standard as on Columbia. Lots of excitement like the very fast “Kitten ...” and “... Sal” and the original conception of “Dinah”. Beautiful “... Alabama” and “... The World ...” should also be particularly noted.

Too much slow, dreamy titles for my taste, should wish for more variation. But the ballad playing is of course beautiful as always. For some details; note the original opening of “... Spanish Town” and a bit stride piano on “... Sunrise”.

Now this may be controversial, but the inclusion of conga is a disaster. Rarely has EG made such boring attempts to try to ‘modernize’, if that was supposed to be the idea. The music just become chopped up in pieces. Compare these with the non-conga items and we are back to normal, great EG. Note the “... Blues”. Also, ... this session presents the first appearance of the famous “Misty”; wonderful!!

This Mercury session was reported done just in two hours, an achievement in itself. EG is alone here, first solo session in three years, and chooses to elaborate on the various tunes, so plus/minus six minutes are common here. This gives his ballads an other dimension compared to the many brief versions. He is obviously under no constraints here, just sitting down to play for himself whatever he feels like, and the results are magnificent. Most are ballads, and again it is almost meaningless to single out particular highlights, but no harm done if you try the well known “... Town” with so many surprises, or “... Rainbow”, more than ten minutes, the hitherto longest individual performance ever and with such incredible beauty and creativity. Note also his appearance on the celeste in “Sleep”, but whether that was a good idea can be discussed. The total impression of this session is great, and really unique for the slow titles.

When I visited George Avakian in his home some years ago, he showed me the tapes of the complete concert, and since then I have waited for this recent CD issue. Let me state at once: The selection of the first half of titles cannot be based upon artistic considerations but rather pure business aspects. “Caravan”, “... Birdland”, “Will You Still ...” and “S Wonderful” were recorded on that famous Feb. 27, 1953 date, and some policy obviously excluded these titles from being used. Their presence here makes the pleasure even greater, and it is interesting to compare the different versions. I was somewhat disappointed by “... Birdland”, particularly the first ½ choruses were almost identical, same for “... Mine?”. However, as playing progressed, the differences and details became greater, and in total, there is much to learn about EG’s improvisational style. The highlights of these ‘duplicates’ is “Caravan” where he just goes on and on in the most overwhelming way, so much new and previously unheard details, run and play this one! Of the ‘new’ titles, “Bernie’s ...” is also a fireworks of piano playing, and soft “... Waterfront” and “Laura” are also remarkable. Would like to quote Geri Allen’s liner notes to the concert: “Garner expressed his uncanny technique and masterful spontaneous improvised introductions throughout the concert, reflecting his knowledge of music across the genres. His striking touch ran the whole spectrum, and he employed dynamics from the most explosive fortissimos to the most delicate pianissimos. Garner had complete freedom to do whatever he wanted. Whatever tempo, key, dynamic, repertoire, ragtime to stride to boogie to pre-bop, unison octaves, velocity block chords, counter melodies, complex harmonies and rhythmic strata, it was all fluid and free flowing”.

If you want, it is quite possible to consider this session as an anticlimax after the previous wonderful Columbia sessions and the “Concert By The Sea”. However, to be fair, this would be all wrong, because it is only a continuation of the vast project of recording all evergreens, or som it seems. EG is still as inspired as always, no doubt about that. The tempo is generally higher than on most sessions, something which suits me well. One highlight is definitely “Alexander ...”, and on this we hear one of the few examples of EG playing stride, he knew everything! Another is the extended “The Man ...” with tempo changing from slow to fast, a great performance! A third is six minutes of “... River”, vow! And “Dreamy” which fits nicely into a triumvirate of “Misty” and “Laura”. “Yes, this is an important session not to bypass!

ERROLL GARNER WITH ORCHESTRA

56581 Misty 3:16. (S)
56582 Dreamy 3:04. (S)
56583 On The Street Where You Live 3:03. (S)

I am sure that EG loved this opportunity to record “Misty” and other slow dreamers with a large string orchestra, and the results are very nice sounding, but not really astounding seen in the larger perspective of one of the greatest jazz pianists the world has ever seen..

56591  Passing Through  3:09. (F)

Fine contrasts between the fast “... Through” and the slow ballad “... Heart”. It is also obvious that EG enjoyed latin music. The highlight however is “... Way Back ...”, rarely does he play the blues, strange, because he has no problems with it. And, can you believe, this item starts with a bass introduction!

Five years has passed since Columbia attempted a solo session, and although personally I prefer the support of a trio, nothing is wrong with the results here. The highlight might be an extended and beautiful version of “... My Head”.

A sparkling version of “... When”, so often played in a slow tempo but not here, should have been three times as long! Then something quite unique; a “Tea ...”
played as a medley in three different versions and styles, both funny, pleasant and impressing, what that guy could do! Note that a full orchestra comes in at the end of both items.

The trio has with Kelly Martin got a new drummer, and together with Calhoun it stays together until 1966. This is its first studio recording session. Choosing a theme for a full session is risky, but Paris has so much to offer. Fast titles are, lacking, with one great exception, but the equal blend of medium swingers and slow ballads works very fine. There is no need to highlight any particular item, but try “… Doll”. Note the use of celeste on “Don’t Look …”; interesting maybe, but not very good idea, the sound of the piano is so much better, my personal opinion. Note also the quite rare “Too Close …”, being so bizarre that it is understandable that it has escaped much publication.

The final Columbia session, and honestly this is a time to quit. When the lack of better ideas gives birth to heavy use of harpsichord instead of piano, something is wrong.

Both 1958 and Columbia have come to an end, and here is a good idea: Issue all Erroll Garner’s Columbia recordings in a Mosaic box set of ten CDs! Many of these sessions are hard to come by these days, and even internet gives you limited support. I am sure that EG’s best art will be warmly welcomed, with some professional marketing, also by a modern and younger public!

Blue Lou 5:02. (FM)
Come Rain Or Come Shine 4:49. (S)
Note that except for several unissued sessions, this is the first EG studio recording in almost three years!! The question which immediately comes to my mind is of course: Has EG’s music changed, and if so, for better or what? My answer is: Not at all! He uses the same trio, selects from the same old songbook, and no changes in the style can be heard at this point. He swings uptempo just like before on "... Things" and "... Tramp" and can create beautiful dreamy ballads again just like before, as "... Sentimental ..." and "Dreamstreet" will demonstrate without or with a beat. And his ability to surprise when starting on a tune is in fact growing, just take “Blue Lou” and “... Tramp”!

This session fits nicely into the row of very good studio sessions with a mixture of tempi and durations, nothing really to add to what has been said numerous times before. The delicate “... Silent Love” is one of the highlights.

Two very successful sessions with lots of interesting performances. An elegant “September ...” represents the ballads, and listen to “Crazy ...” which has an opening just that!

Note: From now on and for the rest of the solography, unissued sessions named in James H. Doran’s book will not be mentioned.

Nice concert, although possibly not as exciting with dramatic highlights as some of the earlier ones. A beautiful slow “... Valentine” should definitely be noted. Nice swinging on “Indiana”, “... Town” and “... Night” are also good moments.

ERROLL GARNER TRIO Seattle, Aug. 20-25, 1962

Stride Out

One of the greatest concerts (of those issued ...), kicking from the very first bars of “The Way ...”! Enjoy the two wonderful ballads of “... Joe” and another “Misty”, and then continue with more of the fast medium material. The highlight for me is the magnificent “Sweet ...” with a melody presentation having an exceptionally strong left hand, and the going into swing action on the next choruses to lead into a hypnotic chorded section which just brought me down when I heard it for the first time. You will get more of the same with “... The Knife” and “Lover ...”. You may spend time with this concert even before you are tired of “Concert By The Sea” ...

Back In Your Own Backyard 2:42. (F)

Just One Of Those Things 1:47. (F)

Particularly “... Backyard” and “... Things”, the latter being much too brief, belong to those great swing items that we love so much!

ERROLL GARNER WITH ORCHESTRA LA. July 1963

Louise 3:17. (M)
Fashion Interlude 4:08. (S)
Steve’s Song 3:54. (SM)
Paris Mist (Bossa Nova) 3:54. (FM)
You Brought The New Kind Of Love To Me 3:28. (S)
I would be the last to say that EG is playing badly on a session, and he is not able to either, but the idea of this session eludes me. Some nice blends of slow piano and orchestra as on “Paris Mist” and “Mimi”, oh yeah, there is music here, but the concept is utterly corny, whatever EG might have enjoyed, probably flattered by the chance to have a bigband behind him. There is so much more interesting EG that this session is something you play once only.

Lots of goodies on these sessions, just pick and choose! Dig the brief and fast “... Believe”, the swinging “... Heaven” and “... Beloved”, the unusually slow “... That Man” and the unusually fast “... Romance”, as a few examples. EG is as good as ever!!

Magnificent concert recently issued (2018), lots of fascinating items, run and buy it as soon as possible! A few remarks though. It seems that EG’s unique love for introducing his performances in such a way that you have no idea what is coming, seems to be stronger than ever now. Take “Cheek ...”, “... Valentine”, “... Rainbow” and “... Lover ...” as examples, am I right? Something else I just wonder; I have a feeling that EG includes more often than before quite far out details, sometimes close to the bizarre. This just increases the depth of his improvisations, but it might indicate a change of attitude, of mood. Compare this concert as a whole with “Concert By The Sea” nine years earlier, isn’t there a difference? Do we sense a slightly darker hue now?

There is simply not anything to add to the evergreen studio sessions of earlier years, EG is as great here as always!

The above is the last session issued on LP/CD with that great trio of Erroll Garner, Eddie Calhoun and Kelly Martin. However, there are several unissued session later, last one in May 29, 1966 (ref. Doran).
ERROLL GARNER QUINTET

NYC. April 1966

Erroll Garner (p), Art Ryerson (g), Milt Hinton (b), George Jenkins (dm), Johnny Pacheco (cga).

Two titles were recorded for MGM, issued as “That’s My Kick”.

100613 Afinidad 2:53. (SM)
100614 That’s My Kick 2:46. (M)

This seems to be a forewarning of things to come ... “if something is not broken, why try to fix it?” Was something wrong with the trio?...

ERROLL GARNER QUINTET

NYC. Nov. 17, 1966

Erroll Garner (p), Wally Richardson (g), Milt Hinton (b), Herbert Lovelle (dm), Jose Mangual (cga).

Nine titles were recorded for MGM, issued as “That’s My Kick”.

101886 More 2:54. (F)
101887 It Ain’t Necessarily So 3:30. (SM)
102632 The Shadow Of Your Smile 3:56. (SM)
102633 Like It Is 2:43. (M)
102634 Autumn Leaves 3:21. (M)
102635 Blue Moon 2:47. (M)
102636 Gaslight 4:28. (S)
102637 Nervous Waltz 3:24. (M)
102638 Passing Through 2:36. (FM)

The decision has obviously been made: EG’s hands must have become so weak that he needs support, and by all means, a latin one! In my opinion a disastrous decision! The additional rhythm instrument serves no purpose and is only a disturbance, particularly in the medium tempi. EG himself seems to be in full command of his artistic powers, although I feel his energy is slightly below what it used to be in the famous fifties. Also, the duration of these items brings us almost back to the stonecake era. Is this EG’s own choice or is he being under a stronger control regime now? Accept my questioning, I don’t know the answer. And after these speculations, it is just proper to state that there is much good music like “... Leaves” here, also with some ’modern’ evergreens like “... Shadow ...” included in the repertoire.

ERROLL GARNER QUARTET

Chi. Nov. 28/29, 1967

Erroll Garner (p), Ike Isaacs (b), Jimmie Smith (dm), Jose Mangual (cga).

Seven titles were issued on Octave (2018).

I’m Confessin’ 5:03. (SM)
Sunny 3:19. (SM)
Satin Doll 5:52. (S)
Back To You 5:26. (S)
Night And Day 4:25. (FM)
Stella By Starlight 4:50. (SM)
Down Wylie Avenue 5:30. (SM)

This recently issued Octave Music CD is hopefully an attempt to bring EG back on stage for a modern public, and obviously effort has been made to find the best of his contemporary music. As you also can see, the items last up to six minutes, thus giving our friend more freedom for his improvisations. We cannot avoid the latin rhythm, but with some experience our ears can manage to filter most of it away, and there is good music here with “... Confessin’” and “... Starlight” as two highlights.

ERROLL GARNER TRIO

NYC. Feb. 5, 1968

Erroll Garner (p), Eddy Calhoun (b), Kelly Martin (dm).

One item only on EmArcy CD “EG Plays Gershwin & Kern”, but the date must be wrong, this trio is all gone! Or is there a very brief reunion?

Nice Work If You Can Get It 1:05. (M)

ERROLL GARNER QUARTET WITH THE BRASS BED

NYC. March 19, 1968

Erroll Garner (p), Ike Isaacs (b), Jimmie Smith (dm), Jose Manguel (cga).

A “brass bed” (seven famous artists) added at a later date on items 1, 5, 6, 8 and 10.

Ten titles were recorded for MGM, issued as “Up In Erroll’s Room”.

Watermelon Man 4:14. (SM)
It’s The Talk Of The Town 4:48. (S)
Groovin’ High 3:52. (F)
The Girl From Ipanema 4:30. (M)
The quartet items are of ‘usual’ high quality but surprisingly much force is used; note for instance the different aspects of “... The Town” and particularly when EG goes bebopping on “Groovin’ ...” (what on earth is a conga doing here?). On “... Ipanema” the introduction is even more far out and bizarre than usual, on the other hand the latin touch is proper for once. The brass bed idea is to me just a waste of money, but experiments in jazz are allowed, by all means.

ERROLL GARNER QUARTET
Paris, May 28, 1969
Erroll Garner (p), Larry Gales (b), Jimmie Smith (dm), Jose Mangual (cga).
One title was issued on Octave (2018).

Misty
4:53. (S)

James Doran lists four issued versions of “Misty”, so this is the fifth one then; note though that there are fiftytwo unissued ones! Nice but perhaps a bit of routine (if that is a word ever connected to EG), and latin backing is not what is needed here.

ERROLL GARNER QUARTET
Chi. Aug. 7, 1969
Erroll Garner (p, org), Gerald Jemmott (b), Jimmie Smith (dm), Jose Mangual (cga). However there is also a (g) present on this session.

Eleven titles were recorded for Mercury, one issued (none of those with (org).

884-1
You Turned Me Around
5:48 to fade out. (SM)

ERROLL GARNER QUARTET
NYC. Oct. 7, 1969
Erroll Garner (p), George Duvivier (b), Joe Cocuzzo (dm), Jose Mangual (cga).
One title was issued on Octave (2018).

Chase Me
2:57. (F)

An aborted intro and then a full performance in uptempo. Swinging but much force is used, not the lightweight touch of many earlier masterpieces.

ERROLL GARNER QUARTET
NYC. Nov. 7, 1969
Erroll Garner (p), George Duvivier (b), Joe Cocuzzo (dm), Jose Mangual (cga). Ten titles were recorded for Mercury, four issued as “Feeling Is Believing”.

1001-3
The Loving Touch
5:38. (S)

1005-4
Feeling Is Believing
2:39. (S)

1007-1
Strangers In The Night
3:44. (F)

1009-2
Mood Island
4:35. (SM)

NYC. Dec. 2, 1969
Erroll Garner (p), George Duvivier (b), Charles Persip (dm), Jose Mangual (cga). Seven titles, five issued as above.

1020-3
Paisley Eyes
2:58. (FM)

1022-1
For Once In My Life
3:22. (FM)

1023-7
Yesterday
3:05. (M)

1024-1
The Look Of Love
2:40. (M)

1025-3
Spinning Wheel
3:27. (F)

Apart from that I won’t mention anymore (conga), there is fine music here. Note the presence of the prominent bass player here, contributing more actively than what EG’s supporters usually are allowed to, just listen to the delightful “Yesterday”, “... Touch” and “... Believing”. Also should be mentioned “Strangers ...” in an unexpected fast tempo, but giving evidence of EG still being able to play swinging uptempo if he wants to.

ERROLL GARNER QUARTET
NYC. April 27, 1971
Erroll Garner (p), Ernest McCarty (b), Jimmie Smith (dm), Jose Mangual (cga). One title was issued on Octave (2018).

Latin Digs
5:28. (SM)

For this item, the quartet is perfect, but I wish EG wasn’t so heavy on it.
ERROLL GARNER QUARTET                                    Turin, Italy, May 9, 1971
Erroll Garner (p), Ernest McCarty (b), Jimmie Smith (dm), Jose Mangual (cga).
Ten titles were recorded live in the RAI Auditorium, nine issued.

There Will Never Be Another You                          2:46. (FM)
The Shadow Of Your Smile                                    4:42. (F)
Yesterday                                                   5:19. (S)
The Girl From Ipanema                                         5:40. (FM)
Misty                                                       4:24. (S)
Tell It Like It Is                                          4:38. (FM)
I’ll Remember April                                          4:06. (FM)
Misty No. 2                                                   2:16. (M)
Variations On “Misty”                                         1:39. (F)

The last issued concert. Although it cannot compare with the former great ones, there are many highlights here. Note how unpredictable EG could be, by listening to “... Your Smile”, here he chooses a completely different tempo from the version five years earlier, as well as taking the public on surprise on “... Ipanema”. “Misty” seems so popular that it has to be played in different tempi, not particularly tasteful I should say. My favourites is the rather brief but swinging “... Another You”, another full ripe version of “Yesterday”, and finally an “... April” to be compared to the by-the Sea-version, showing that if EG is supposed to have lost anything in fifteen years, it certainly cannot be much!

ERROLL GARNER QUARTET                                     NYC. June 22, 1971
Erroll Garner (p), Ernest McCarty (b), Jimmie Smith (dm), Jose Mangual (cga).
One title was issued on Octave (2018).

I Want To Be Happy                                          3:01. (F)

NYC. Dec. 2, 1971

Same. Three titles were issued on Octave (2018).

High Wire                                                   3:47. (M)
Wild Music                                                    5:07. (M)
Caravan                                                       6:24. (F)

These four items seem to top the Octave CD. On “... Happy”, a tune not recorded before, the energy is back, EG sings along with it, and the atmosphere is similar to the ‘old days’. Strong playing also on “High ... and “Wild ...”. Then the highlight we have been waiting for; another and final version of “Caravan”. Fifteen years and more have passed since the three magnificent versions appeared. No doubt there has been a change of style, harder, with a hypnotic left hand, another great experience, but there is no doubt we have another EG these days, for good or for almost as good.

ERROLL GARNER QUARTET                                     NYC. Dec. 2, 1971
Erroll Garner (p, harpsichord-“... Cry”, “... Two”), Ernest McCarty (b), Jimmie Smith (dm), Jose Mangual (cga).
Eight titles were recorded for London, issued as “Gemini”.

How High The Moon                                           5:07. (F)
It Could Happen To You                                         3:48. (SM)
Gemini                                                        4:04. (FM)
When A Gypsy Makes His Violin Cry                               6:23. (SM)
Tea For Two                                                  5:27. (FM)
Something                                                     1:51. (SM)
Eldorado                                                       5:49. (M)
These Foolish Things                                           7:00. (S)

Five minutes of improvised “... Moon” and you have EG’s improvisational qualities straight before you; if he sometimes can be thought to be on a slow decline (heresy?), this is mostly due to choice of tunes and recording formats, that means more or less successful commercial considerations. Obviously he still can play at his very best in all tempi. “... Gypsy ...” shows us how simple it also is possible to make it (the conga works well here), beautiful, and changing to harpsichord halfway out, this time my conservative resistance is broken down. The “... Tea ...” simply makes you surrender completely, EG knows best! Looking for an old fashioned highlight, put on “... Things”.

ERROLL GARNER QUARTET                                     NYC. Oct. 30, 1973
Erroll Garner (p), Bob Cranshaw (b), Grady Tate (dm), Jose Mangual (cga).
Norman Gould (org), Jackie Williams (tambourine) added on 7306.
Sixteen titles were recorded for London, nine issued as “Magician”.

How High The Moon                                           5:07. (F)

At the time of writing (early 2019), this is the latest EG session issued and available to the general public before his untimely death (smoking too much ...) three years later. If his playing now had been typical of his whole career, he would still have been considered one of the piano greats of jazz, combining an incredible ability to improvise with an approach tailored for the common listener, not only jazz hardliners. Nevertheless, some of his elegance, humour and agility have been replaced by a harder left hand, strange chords and generally a more heavy approach. Take “... Watch ...” as a typical example. On the other hand he sings or hums more than before while playing, so maybe he enjoys himself more now? Take “Close To You” and “... Eyes ...” as ‘swan songs’, can this be an artist tired of life, of create art? Oh, no.

No further recording sessions nor broadcasts issued.

Afterthought: This solography has been a different experience to me, compared to the numerous others I have undertaken during half a century. After listening to the vast number of more or less perfect piano artistry, I wish I could start from the beginning, being better at highlighting particularly interesting details, like comparing the many cases of different versions of the same tunes over time. Probably I will never do that, time is running out. Nevertheless I hope that I have managed to present Erroll Garner’s legacy to new generations, inspiring also young people to go back in time and listen to a quite unique artist.

…ooo…
